THE MESSAGE.

We present our readers, this morning, with the President's Message in full. It is very long, and in some instances, particularly in relation to the currency question, tediously verbose. Our space is so fully occupied with it that we must necessarily forbear comments to-day.

Kansas in Congress. The debates on the Kansas question open with spirit. Douglas, pretending to disbelieve that the President means what his words imply, speaks boldly for submission of the Constitution. Bigler replies as boldly for the President, and twits Douglas with abandoning his much talked of equatter sovereignty notions.

It is a very pretty quarrel as it stands. The despatch giving the substance of the debate Wednesday is quite interesting. Douglas has given notice of a new Enabling

It is true the tone of the message indicates willingness, on the part of the Prosident, to sign any bill Congress might pass receiving Kansas as a State into the Union under the Constitution; but it was a very significant fact that the President had refrained from any endorsement of the convention, and from any recommendation as to the course Congress should pursue in regard to the admission of with paper which does not represent gold and silver.

It is one of the highest and most responsible deties of Government to Insure to the people a sound circulating medium, the amount of which ought to be adapted with the utmost possible wisdom and skill to the wonts of internal tradual dereign exchanges. If this be either greatly above or greatly below the proper standard, the market value of every man's property is increased or diminished in the same proportion, and injustice to individuals as well as incalculable evils to the community are the consequence.

Unfortunately, under the construction of the federal Constitution which has now prevailed too

Unfortunately, under the construction of the federal Constitution which has now prevailed too long to be changed, this important and delicated duty has been dissevered from the coining power and virtually transferred to more than fourteen hunded State banks, acting independently of each other, and regulating their paper leaves almost exclusively by a regard to the present interest and the same inclination with their favorites and irlends. Such has been dissevered from the coining power content of the first duty has been dissevered from the coining power and virtually transferred to more than fourteen hunded State banks, acting independently of each other, and regulating their paper leaves almost exclusively by a regard to the present interest of their stockholders. Exercising the sovereign power of providing a paper currency instead of coin, for the country, the first duty which these banks owe the public is to keep in their vaults a sufficient amount of gold and silver to insure the convertibility of their notes into coin at all times and under all circumstances.—

No bank ought ever to be chartered without such restrictions are comparatively vain. This is the only true touchstone, the only efficient regulator of a paper currency—tho only one which can guard the public against oversits. one which can guard the public against over-issues and bank suspensions. As a colluteral and oventual security it is doubtless wise, and in all cases ought to be required, that bunks shall hold an amount of United States or State securities qual to their notes in circulation and pledged or their redemption. This, bowever, furnishes

On the contrary, it may be parverted to induce the contrary, it may be parverted to induce the correct. I deded, it is possible by this means to convert all the debts of the United States and the State Governments into bank notes, without reference to the specie required to reduce them. specie required to redeem them.

However valuable these securities may be in in themselves, they cannot be converted into gold and silver at the moment of pressure, as our experience teaches, in sufficient time to prevent back suspensions, and the depreciation of notes. In England, which is to a considerable extent a paper-mone; country, though vastly behind our own in this respect, it was deemed advisable, interior to the act of Parliament of 1844, which wisely separated the issue of notes from the banking department for the Bank of England alwisely separated the issue of notes from the banking department for the Bank of England always to keep on hand gold and silver equal to one third of its combined circulation and deposits. If this proportion was no more than sufficient to secure the convertibility of its notes, with is. If this proportion was no more than suffici-ont to secure the convertibility of its notes, with the whole of Gress Britain, and some extent the continent of Europa as a field for its circulation, rendering it almost unpossible that a sudden and immediate run to a dungerous amount should be made upon it the arms proportion would can immediate run to a dangerous amount shound be made upon it, the same proportion would certainly be insufficient under our banking system.

Each of our fourteen hundred banks has but a limited circumference for its circulation, and in the course of a very few days the depositor.

The diplomatic difficulties which existed between the Government of the United States and that of Great Britain at the adjournment of the last Concress have been happily torminated by the Each of our fourteen hundred banks has out on the whole, in a satisfactory condition, and in the course of a very few days the depositors and note holders might demand from such a bank a sufficient amount in specie to compel it to suspend, even obtlough it had cold in its vaults appointment of a British minister to this coursel to constitute of the list constitute equal to one-third of its immediate llabilities, and yet I am not aware, with the exception of the banks of Louismans, that any state bank throughout the Union has been required by its charter to keep this or any other proportion of gold and silver compared with the amount of its combined circulation and depesies. What has been the consequence? In a recent report made by the Treasury Department on the condition of the banks throughout the different States according to returns dated nearest to January, 1857, the aggregate amount of actual specie in their vaults is $58,249,838; of their circulation, $2314,732,832, and of their deposits $393,457. $214,778,882, and of their deposits, $230,351, $52. Thus it appears that these banks in the aggregate have considerably less than one dollar in seven of gold and silver compared with their aggregate have considerably less that one dollar in seven of gold and silver compared with their circulation and deposites. It was palpable, therefore, that the very first pressure must drive them to suspension, and deprive the people of a convertible currency, with all its disastrous consequences. quences.

It is truly wonderful that that they should have so long continued to preserve their credit, when a demand for the payment of one-seventh of their immediate liabilities would have driven of their immediate habilities would have driven them into insofrency. And this is the condition of the banks, notwithstanding that four hundred millions of gold from Galforna have flowed in upon us within the last eight years, and the tide still continues to flow. Indeed, such has been the extravagance of bank credits that the banks now hold a considerably less amount of specie, either in proportion to their capital or to the circulation and deposits combined, than they did before the discovery of gold in California, whilst in the year 1848 their specie in proportion to their capital was come than away to any delice. their capital was more than equal to one dollar for every six dollars and thirty-three cents of a system of curtailment of its loans and issues, in the vain hope that the joint stock and private banks of the kingdom would be compelled to follow he example. It found, however, that as it contracted they expanded, and at the end of the process, to employ the language of a very high official authority, "whatever reduction of the paper circulation was effected by the Bank of England (in 1826) was more than made up by the issues of the country banks."

But a Bank of the United Stat 8 would not, if it could, restrain the issue and loans of the State.

it could, restrain the issue and loans of the State Banks, because its duty as a regulator of the em-rency must often be in direct rendiet with the immediate interest of its stocksolders. It we expect one agent to restrain or control another their interests must, at least in some degree, be antagonistic. But the directors of a Bank of the United States would feel the same interest and the same inclination with the directors of the State Banks to expand the currency, to accommodate their favorites and triends with leasts, and to doclare large dividends. Such has been our experience in regard to whe last Bank.

After all, we must mainly rely upon the patriotism and wisdom of the States for the prevention and redress of the cyll. If they will allord us a real specie basis for our circulation, by increasing the denomination of bank notes, fact to twenty and afterwards to flay dollars: if they expect one agent to restrain or control another try, who has been cordially received.

Whilet it is greatly to the interest, as I am convinced it is the sincore desire, of the Governments and people of the two countries to be on terms of latimate friendship with each other, it has been our misfortune almost always to have had some irritating, if not dangerous, outstanding question with Great Britain.

ing question with Great Britain.

Since the origin of the Government-we have been employed in negotiating treaties with that power, and afterwards in discussing their true intent and meaning. In this respect, the Convention of April 19, 1850, commonly called the Clavton and Bulwer treaty, has been the most unfortunate of all; because the two Governments place directly opposite and contradictory constructions upon its first and most important article. article. Whilst in the United States, we believe that Whilst in the United States, we believe that this treaty would place both powers upon an exact equality by the attipulation that neither will ever "occupy, or fortify, or colonize, or assume or exercise any dominion" over any part of Central America, it is contended by the British Government that the true construction of this language has left them in the rightful possession of all that portion of Central America which was in their occupancy at the date of the treaty, in fact, that the treaty is a virtual recognition on the part of the United States of the right of Great Britain, either as owner or protector, to the whole extensive coast of Central America, sweeping round from the Rio Hondo to the port and harbor of San Juan de Nicaragua, together with the adjacent Bay Islanda, except the comparatively small portion of this between the Saratoon and Cape Hondmass. According to their construction, the treaty does no more than simply problibit them from extending their posses sions in Central America, beyond their present limits. It is not too much to assert, that if in for every six dollars and thirty-three cents of their capital. In the year 1848 the specie was equal within a very small fraction to one dollar in five of their circulation and deposites; in 1856 ti is not equal to one dollar in seven and a half of their circulation and deposite.

From this externent it is easy to account for our financial history for the hast forty years. It has been a history of extravagant expansions in the United States the treaty had been considered have been negotiated under the authority of the rour financial history for the hast forty years. With France our ancient relations of friendship still continue to exist. The French Government have, in several instances, which need not as enumerated, evinced a spirit of good will and kindness towards our country which I heartly reciprocate. It is, notwithstanding, much to be regretted that two nations, whose productions are of such a character as to invite the most extensive exchanges and freest commercial intercourse, should continue to enforce ancienc and obsolete restrictions of trade against ench other. Our commercial treaty with France is in this respect an exception from our treaties with all other commercial nations. It jealously levies distinction of any in the our country, when arriving in vessels belonging to the other.

More than forty years ago, on the 4th of March, 1817. Congress passed an act effering to, all nations.

More than torty years ago, on the 4th of March, 1817, Congress assend an act offering to , all nationate adult their vessels laden with their national productions into the ports of the United tional productions into the ports of the United Stries upon the same terms with our own vessels provided they would reciprocate to us similar advantages. This act confined the reciprocity to the productions of the respective foreign nations who might enter into the proposed grangement with the United Stries. The act of May 24,1823 removed this restriction, and offered a similar reciprocity to all such vessels without reference to the origin of their cargoes. Upon these principles, our commercial treaties and arrangements have been founded, except with France, and let us hope that this exception may not long crist. Our relations with Russia remain as that where here Our relations with Russia remain as they have

Our relations with Russia remain as they have been open, on the most friendly footing. The present Emperor, as well as his predecessors, have never inited, when the occasion offered, to manifest their good will to our country; and their friendship has always been highly appreciated by the Government and people of the United States.

their ritationals has anyly been lighty appreciated by the Government and people of the United States.

With all other European Governments, except that of Spain, our relations are as peaceful as we could desire. Legget to say that no progress whatever has been made since the adjournment of Congress, towards the nettlement of any of the numerous claims of our citizens against the Spanish Government. Besides, the outrage committed on our flag by the Spanish war frighte Ferrolana on the high sens, on the coast of Cuba, in March, 1836, by firing into the American mail steamer El Dorado, and detaining and searching her, remains unacknowledged and unredressed. The general tone and temper of the Spanish Government towards that of the United States are much to be regretted. Our present envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Madrid has asked to be recalled; and it is my purpose to send out a new Minister to Spain, with a special instructions on all questions pending be-present.

We cannot fail to feel a deep interest in all that concerns the welfare of the independent republics on one own continent, as well as of the empire of Reazil.

Oor difficulties with New Granada, which a short time since bore so threatening an aspect, are, it is to be hoped, in a fair train of settlement in a manner just and honorable to both parties.

The Isthmus of central America, including parties.

The Isthmus of central America, including that of Panama, is the great highway between the Atlantic and Pactice, over which a large portion of the consumerce of the world is destined to page. The United States are more deeply interested than any other nation in preserving the freedom and security of all the communications across the isthmus. It is our duty therefore, to take care that they shall not be interrupted; the ready of the interrupted that care the independent States of Courtal America. Under our treaty with New Granda of the 12th of December, 1840, we are bound to guarantee the neutrality of the isthmus of Panama railroad passes, "as well as the rights of sovereighty and property which New Granda has and possesses over the said Territoay." This obligation is founded upon equivalents granted by the treaty to the government and people of the United States.

Under these circumstances, I recommend to Gongress the passage of an act authorizing the President, in case of necessity, to employ the far different if expeditions were set on foot with-in our own territories to unke private war against a powerful nation. If such expeditions were fitted out from abroad against any portion of our own country, to barn down our cities, murder and plunder our people, and usurp our govern-ment, we should call any power on carta to the strictest account for not preventing such enor-mities.

When it was first rendered probable 'that an attempt would be made to get up unother unlawful expedition against Nicaragua, the Secretary of State issued instructions to the Marshals and District Attorneys which were directed by the Secretaries of War and the Navy to the appropriate army and navy efficies, a quicing them to be vigilant, and to use their boot exertions in carrying into effect the provisions of the act of 1818. Notwithstanding these precautions, the expedition has escaped from our shores. Such enterprises can do no possible good to the country, but have already influed much injury both on its interests and its character. They have prevented peaceful emigration from the fuilted States to the States of Central America, which could not fail to prove highly beneficial to all the parties concerned. In a pecuniary point of view alone, our citizens have sustained heavy loses from the seizure and closing of the transit route by the San Juan, between the two oceans.

The leader of the recent expedition was arrested at New Orleans, but was discharged on giving bail for his appearance in the insufficient

'I commend the whole subject to the serious attention of Congress, believing that our duty and our interest, as well as our national character, require that we should adopt such measures fas will be effectual in restraining our citizens from committing such outrages.

The Lecomption Constitution—Why

Those presses of the democratic party which defend, as the President defends, the outrage of the Bogus Lecompton Convention, in refusing to submit the Constitution to the people, insiat that as the question of Slavery is submitted, that is enough, and the people out to be satisfied; and many of them allege that the Constitution, aside from the Slavery question, is really a meritorious document, and they commend it highly. We dispute both of their positions. We insist that the people have a right to vote upon the whole document. We hold that, even if the people should vote to reject the especial Slavery article, that the Constitution is so framed as to continue the abhorred institution in their midst for years to come, and for us long as the Dred Scott decision, as interpreted by those for whom it was made, can be made to apply; and that the code of Missouri slave laws is continued in force. There are many other objectionable features in

The apportionment of the Legislature is made on the most iniquitous basis, the well-known Oxford and McGee county frauds being recognized as if they were just and honest votes. A vast number of railroad, ferry and bridge charters, and other monopolies, which had been distributed by the members of the Border Ruffian Legislature among themselves, are fully confirmed by this Constitution, All the civil officers of the State are, by this Constitution compelled to act as a general posses for the arrest of runnaway slaves-the section including all sheriffs, constables, policemen, &c. A five years' residence and cltizenship is required of all foreigners before they can be allowed to vote at any election.

A State debt of half a million of dollars is authorised to defray expenses of the Missouri invasion; the robbers who pillaged the people demanding pay for damage done by Free State men in protecting themselves.

These are a few of the objections to this Constitution aside from the Slavery chapter; and upon these the people are allowed no vote. If they take part in the election at all, they must vote to sanction all the wrongs enumerated, and establish Slavery besides—or to sanction those wrongs, and not establish Slavery. But they must vote for the Constitution at any rate, while the cunning rescals of the Convention have so managed it that they shall also secure a foothold to Slavery, whatever be the vote of the people. This is the sort of Democracy upheld by the President. The Crisis in England.

The monetary crisis in England was at its height between the 10th and the 13th of November-the stringency and excitement exceeding The Pullar Picture of him and other state of Norestate August 1 and some set of the 18th of November 1, 200 feet and the American trade, not even the Browney, could be negotiated at any rate." Indeed, it is an upposed that they rendered more aid to the Band of England than any they received, and thin, doining all this even full crisis, they have been more trally independent than that most own moneyed power, or even the government itself.

Der Lord Clarendon has determined to send Dr. Livingston, the African explorer, to Lisbon, with the strongest recommendations, both to the King and Government of Portugal, where also he would receive the hearty support of the English Minister at that Court, in his efforts to secure freedom of navigation of the Numbers, and the utmost facilities for commercial intercourse with the interior of Africa.

PROPOSED REVIVAL OF THE AFRICAN SLAVE THAPPSED REVIVAL OF THE AFRICAN SLAVE THAPSE.—The Committee of the South Carolina Legislature have submitted their report upon that portion of the Governor's Message, which relates to slavery, in which they strongly urge the policy of re-opening the African slave trade. The resolutions adopted in support of their views re:
1. That the chief and almost entire productive industry of the slaveholding States is agricul-ture; to the successful prosecution of which the labor of the negro stave is indispensably neces z. That there is great and growing deficiency of agricultural labor in the said States, which the natural increase of the slave population is in-the natural increase of the slave population is inadequate to supply.

3. That the effect of prohibiting the importation of slaves from abroad is to limit the expansion of the productive industry of said States, and of the population which that industry sustains, to the ratio of the natural increase of the slave population.

4. That the importation of slaves from abroad would accelerate the developement of the sgricultural resources of the slaveholding States, and general improvement, and that such importation

THE NORTHERN DOUGHPACES,-It is common anough to hear of the pro-slavery men of the North. They are easily counted, we opine. Not one in a thousand of the National Democrats of one in a thousand of the National Democrats of that region approve of slavery, either in the abstract or concrete. But the doughfaces, or hireling politicians, are powerful enough to mislead the people and win elections, and numerous enough to keep each other in countenance, and make the individual pressure of their common infamy less intolerable. A Northern man with Southern principles is almost an impossibility, but Northern men who speak and vote for the South are plentiful enough. They are, however, but mere stipendiaries—Sepoys, who will rise in mutiny, not when the fat is forced upon them, but when it is kept from them. They will turn

6. That the effect of an entire suppression of the African slave trade, would be to confine the negroes to their own country, and preclude these from sneh means of relief from the pressure of a redundant population, as might be afforded by emigration in the only form in which its benefits can be extended to them.

The concluding resolution argues that "the Act of Coggress declaring the African elave trade to be piracy, if it be understood as affirming that it is piracy in the nature of things and in the sense of the Constitution, affirms what is untrue; and inasmuch as it purports and intends to convert into piracy what is not so in the nuture of things and in the sense of the Constitution, affirms what is untrue; and inasmuch as it purports and intends to convert into piracy what is not so in the nuture of things and in the sense of the Constitution, affirms what is untrue; and inasmuch as it purports and intends to convert into piracy what is not so in the nuture of things and in the sense of the Constitution, affirms what is untrue; and inasmuch as it purports and intends to convert into piracy what is not so in the nuture of things and in the sense of the Constitution, affirms what is untrue; and in a candidate has a talent for not paying his debts incurred in foreign cities, that should be considered by as a failed to the spirit of the age, and the dictates of humanity. He will not dispace his two Roman names by retraining from the exhibition of a Roman virtue. We shall certainly welcome him home with some pleasure, although the extent of our rapture will be graduated by the character of the gentleman sent to take his place; for it must be said of Mr. Dougo, so far as our own information crackless are notified that at hadrid HANDSOMEST & RICHEST GOODS Less than Half their Usual Cost. resented us as we are when we are "iz," but Mr. Dodge as we are when in a condition of asinine quiescence. Something must be allowed for the fact that our Minister does not understand a word of Spanish, or of any linguage spoken at the Spanish Court. This may account for his moderation; for dumb people are mostly neek additionfensive. As it is, he has provided an excellent specimen of the ligneous, which is the very best style of diplomatic; and we hope that his great success in stupidity, resulting in peace when all before threatened war, will introduce the custom of seading over wooden Enbassadors when all before threatened war, will introduce the custom of sending over wooden Enbassadors elaborately carved, with the knee-breeches and small sword imitated to the full extent of which chisels and paint are capable. Any ship carver will get up a great nambar of these for the sum annually paid to a single five diplomatist. The images may be onehrized in the legation, and the sacreating can sensel, do the furthers here.

Congress, Mr. Buchanan will make the new dip-lomatic appointments. As men of his age are not often averse to the suggestions of precedent, we beg leave to call his attention to the fact that whereas other officers are supposed (sometimes by a pleasant faction) to be qualified for their by a pleasant ration) to be qualified of their posts, it is expected that American Ministers will not be qualified. Their virtue is in not being competent at all. Hence, as it is the custom to speak Franch at most foreign Courts, it would be exceedingly improper to send anybody abroad with the elightest knowledge of that language.—

As the Embassadors of other nations do not get with the propersion of the courts of the courts.

A demand for these purposes will be made in a firm but conciliatory spirit. This will the more probably be granted if the Executive shall have authority to use other means in the event of a reful. This is accordingly recommended. It is unnecessary to state in detail the alarming condition of the Territory of Kanasa, at the time of my inauguration. The opposing parties then stood in hostile array against each other, and any accident might have religited the flames of civil war. Besides, at this critical moment, Kanasa was left without a Governor by the resignation of Gov. Geary.

On the 19th of February previous, the terri-On the 18th of represent previous, the territorial legislature passed a law providing for the election of delegates on the third Monday of september, for the purpose of forming a constitution proparator, to admission into the Union. This law was in the main fair and just; and it is to be regretted that all the qualified electors had not registered themselves and voted under its

At the time of the election for delegates, an At the time of the election for delegates, an oxtensive organization existed in the Teritory, whose avowed object it was, if need be, to put down the lawful government by force, and to establish a government of their own under the so-called Topeka Constitution. The persons at tached to this revolutionary organization abstanted from taking any part in the election.

The act of the Territorial Legislature had computed to provide for submitting to the people.

The act of the Territorial registrated to provide for submitting to the people the Constitution which might be framed by the Convention; and in the excited state of public Convention; and in the excited state of public feeling throughout Kansas an apprehension extensively prevailed that a design existed to fonce upon them a constitution in relation to slavery against their will. In this emergency it became my duty, as it was my unquestionable right, having in view the union of all good citizens in support of the Territorial laws, to express an opinion on the true construction of the provisions concerning slavery, contained in the orgaine act of Congress of the 30th May, 1854. Congress declared it to be "the true intent and meaning of this act not to legislate slavery into any Territory or State, not to exclude therefrom, but to clared it to be "the true intent and meaning of this act not to legislate slavery into any Territory or State, nor to exclude therefrom, but to leave the people thereof perfectly free to form and regulate their domestic institutions in their com way." Under it Kaneas, "when admitted as a State," was to "he received into the Union with or without alwayery, as their Constitution may prescribe at the time of their admission." Did Congress mean by this language that the delegates elected to frame a Constitution should have authority finally to decide the question of of Slavery, or did they intend, by leaving it to the people, that the people of Kansas themselves should decide this question by a direct vote?—On this subject, I must confess, I have never entertained a serious doubt, and, therefore, in my instituctions to Governor Walker of the 28th March last, I merely said that when "a Constitution shall be submitted to the people of the Territory, they must be protected in the exercise of their right of voting for or against that instrument and the fair expression of the popular will must not be interrupted by fraud or violence."

In expressing this opinion it was far from my intention to interfere with the decision of the people of Kaneas, either for or against Blavery. From this I have always exceluly abstained.—Humsted with the duty of taking "care that the laws be faithfully executed," my only desire was that the people of Kaneas should turnish to Congress the, evidence required by the organic act, whether for or against Slavery; and in this manner smooth their passage into the Union. In emerging from the condition of territorial dependence into that of a sovereign State, it was their davy, in my opinion, to make known their will by the votes of the mejority, on the direct question whether this important domestic institution should or should not continue to exist.

majorities suinciently great not only developed the rotes given for the former, but to leave a large majority of the whole people in direct opposition to a majority of the delegates. Besides, our history proves that influences may be brought to bear on the representative sufficiently powerful to Induce him to disregard the will of his constituents. The trick is, that no other authorities and satisfactory mode exists of assertaining the and satisfactory mode exists of ascertaining the and satisfactory mode exists of assertanting the will of a majority of the people of any State or Territory on an important and exciting question like that of Siavary in Kanasa, except by leaving it to a direct vote. How wise, then, was it for Congress to pass over all subordinate and intermediate agencies, and proceed directly to the source of all legitimate power under our institu-

Mow vain would any other principle prove in practice! This may be illustrated by the case of Kansas. A large proportion of the citizens of Kansas diffuct think proper to register their names and to vote at the election for delegates; but an opportunity to de this having been fairly afforded, their refusal to avail themselves of their right could in no manner affect the legality of the flowestice.

The truth is, the general provisions of our recent State Constitutions are so similarand I may add, so excellent—that the difference between them is not essential. Under the car

They accordingly inserted an atticle in the Constitution for this purpose similar in form to those which have been adopted by other Territorial to a State Government, the question has been fairly and explicitly referred to the people, whether they will have a Constitution "with or without Slavery." It declares that, before the Constitution Slavery. It declares that, before the Constitution and potentially and election shall be held to decide this question, at which all the white male inhabit anis of the Territory above the age of 21 arc entitled to vote. They are to vote by ballot; and "the ballots cast at asid election shall be endorsed "Constitution with Slavery," and Constitution with Slavery," and Constitution with Slavery, and Constitution of the Constitution of the Constitution with Slavery, and Constitution of Congress the establishment of the Constitution with Slavery, and Constitution of Congress the establishment of the Constitution of th "the ballots cast at said election shall be endorsed 'Constitution with Slavery,' and 'Constitution with no Slavery.' If there be a majority in favor of the "Constitution with Slavery," then it is to be transmitted to Congress by the President of the Convention in its original form. If, on the contrary, there shall be a majority in favor of the "Constitution with no Slavery," "then the article previding for Slavery shall be stricken from the Constitution by the President of the Convention;" and it is expressly declared that "mo Slavery shall exist in the State of Kansate except that the right of property in slavers now in the Territory shall in on manuer be interferred with;" and in that event it is made his duty to have the Constitution thus ratified transmitted to the Oongress of the United States for the admission of the State into the Union.

At this election every citizen will have an opportunity of expressing his opinion by his vare in whether Kansas shall be received into the Union with or without Slavery," and thus the exciting question may be peacefully settled in the very mode required by the organic law. The election will beheld under legitimate authority, and the control of the control o and if any portion of the inhabitant shall refuse to vote, a fair opportunity to do so having been presented, this will be their own voluntary act, and they alone will be responsible for the consc-

Whether Kansasehall be a free or a slave state

Whether Kansasshall be a free or a slave state must eventually, under some authority be decided by an election: and the question can never be more clearly or distinctly presented to the people than it is at the present moment. Should this opportunity be rejected, she may be involved for years in domestic discord and possibly in civil war, before she can again make up the issue now so fortunately tendered, and again reach the point she has already attained.

Kansas has for some years occupied too much of public attention. It is high time this should be directed to far more important objects. When once adoitted into the Union, whether wish or without Shavery, the excitement beyond her own limits will speedily pass away, and she will then for the first time be left, as she ought to have been long since, to manage her owe affairs in her own wiy. If her constitution on the subject of Slavery, or on any other subject, the displacating own way. If her constitution on the subject of Slavery, or on any other subject, be displeasing to a majority of the people, no human power can provent them from changing it within a brief period. Under these circumstances, it may well be questioned whether the peace and quiet of the whole country be not of greater importance than the mere temporary triumph of either of the political parties in Kaness.

Should the Constitution without Slavery be adopted by the votes of the majority, the rights of property in slaves now in the Territory are reserved. The number of these is very small; but if it were greater, the provision would be equally just and reasonable. These shaves were brought into the Territory under the Constitution of the United States, and are now the property of their masters. This point has at length been finally decided by the highest judicial tribual of the country—and this upon the plain tion wait awould any other principle prove in practice? This may be illustrated by the case of Kassas. Should she be additted into the Union with a Constitution either maintaining or abolishing Slavery, against the sont ment of the people, this could have no other effect than to continue and to exasperate the extetion agittion during the brief period required to make the Constitution conform to the irresistable will of the majority.

According to the plain construction of the Sectione, the words "domestic institutions" have a direct as they have an approbriate reference to Slavery. I recommend to Congress the establishment of a Territorial Government over Arizous, incorporating with it such portions of New-Mexico as they may deem expedient. I need scarcely adduce arguments is support of this recommendation. We are bound to protect the lives and the property of our citizens inhabiting Arizons, and these are now without any efficient protection. Their prosent number is already considerable, and is rapidly increasing, notwithstanding the disadvantages under which they labor. Besides, the proposed Territory is believed to be rich in mineral and agricultural resources, espacially in silver and copper. The mails of the United States to California are now carried over it throughout its whole extent, and this route is known to be the nearest, and believed to be the best to the Pacific.

known to be the nearest, and believed to be the best to the Pacific.

Long experience has deeply convinced me that a strict construction of the powers granted to Congress is the only true, as well as the only safe theory of the Constitution. While this principle shall guide my public conduct, I consider it clear that under the war-making power Congress may appropriate money for the construction of a millitary road through the Territories of the United States, when this is absolutely necessary for the defence of the States against foreign invesion. The Constitution has conferred upon for the defence of the States against foreign invasion. The Constitution has conferred upon Congress the power "to declare war," "to raise and support armics," "to provide and maintain a mage," and to call forth the militia to repel invasions." These high sovereign powers necessarily involve important and responsible public duties, and among them there is none so sacred and so imperative as that of preserving our soil from the invasion of a foreign enemy.

The Constitution has, therefore, left nothing out this point to construction, but expressly re-

The Constitution has therefore, left nothing on this point to construction, but expressly requires that the United States shall protect each of them [the States] against invasion."— Mow, if a military road over our own Territories be indispensibly necessary to enable us to meet and rapel the invader, it follows as a necessary consequence not only that we possess the power, but it is our imperative duty to construct such a road. It would be an absurdity to invest a government with the unlimited power to make and conduct war, and at the same time deny to it the only means of reaching and defeating the enemy at the frontier. Without such a road it is quite evident we cannot "protect" California and our Pacific possessions "against invasion." We cannot by any other means transport men and munitions of war from the Atlantic States in sufficient time successfully to defend those remote and distant portions of the Republic.

Experience has proved that the routes acros the Isthmus of Central America are at best a very uncertain and unreliable mode of communication. But even if this were not the case, they would at once be closed against us in the event of a mival power so much stronger than our own as to enable it to blockade the ports are there and of these routes. After all, therefore, we can only frely upon a military road through our own Territories; and ever since the origin of the Gorgenment, Congress has been in the practice of appropriating money from the public Treasury for the construction of such roads.

The difficulties and the expense of constructing a military Railroad to loomiect our Atlantic and Pacific States have been greatly exaggerated. The distance on the Arizona route near the 32d But even if this were not the case, they beindary, in my opinion, to make known their will by the votes of the majority, on the direct question whether this important domestic institution should or should not continue to exist.—

Indeed, this was the only possible mode in which their will could be authentically accordanced.

The election of delegates to a convention must measure and their cause it may readily happen, as "has elected by an all insporting of the representatives from the several districts into which it is dived may be upon the other side. We have heretofore disposed of 808,862,464

We have hereafter disposed of 205,002,304 acres of the public land.

Whilst the public lands as a source of revenue are of great importance, their importance is iar greater as furnishing homes for a hardy and independent race of honest and industrious citizens who desire to subdue and cultivate the soil. They ought to be administered mainly with a view of promoting this wise and henevolent poliriew of promoting this wise and beaevolent poli-cy. In appropriating them for any other purposes we ought to use even greater economy than it they had been converted into money and the proceeds were already in the public Treasury. To squander away the richest and noblest inhetitance which any people have ever enjoyed, upon objects of doubtful constitutionality or expediency, would be to violate one of the most important trusts ever committed to any people.
Whilst I do not deny to Congress the power, when acting bona fide as a proprietor, to give the great temptation to abuse this power, we Speculation has of late years prevailed to a great extent in the public lands. The consequence has been that large portions of them have become the property of individuals and companies, and thus the price is greatly sobanaced to those who desire to purchase for actual settlement. In order to limit the area of speculation as much as possible, the extinction of the Indian title and the extesion of the public survey ought to keep pace with the tide of emigration.

If Congress should hereafter grant alternate If Congress should hereafter grant alternat sections to States or companies, as they have done heretofore, I recommend that the intermediate sections retained by the Government should in the sections retained by the Government should be subject to preemption by actual settlers. It ought ever to be our cardinal policy to reserve the public lands as much as may be for actual settlers, and this at moderate prices. We shall thus not only promote the prosperity of the new States and Territories and the power of the Union, but shall secure homes for our posterity for more generations.

Union, but shall secure homes for our posterity for many generations.

The extension of our limits has brought within our jurisdiction many additional and populous tribes of Indians, a large proportion of which are wild, untractable and difficult to countrol.—
Predatory and warsike in their disposition and habits, it is impossible allogether to restrain them from committing aggressions on each other, as well as upon our frontier citizens and those children in the country of the cou

Hence expensive military expeditions are frequently necessary to overawe and chastise the more lawless and bostile.

The present system of making them valuable resents to influence them to remain at peace has proved ineffectual. It is believed to be the botter policy to colonize them in suitable localities, where they can receive the radiments of education and be gradually induced to adopt habits of industry. in the accounts of the current year. I com-mend to your consideration the report of the de-partment in relation to the establishment of the overland mall-route from the Mississippi river to San Francico, California. The route was selected with my ful concurrence, as the one in my judge-ment, the best calculated to attain the important object contemplated by Congress.

The late disastrous monetary revulsion may have one good effect, should it cause both the Government and the people to return to the practice of a wise and judicious economy, both a public and private expenditures.

It ought to be observed at the same time that true public econemy does not consist in withholding the means necessary to accomplish important national objects intrusted to us by the Constitution, and especially such as may be necessary for the common defence.
